SECURITY POLICY

The Thompsons of Prudhoe Group of Companies ("the Group") recognises the need to protect the assets of both the Group and of its clients (interpreting assets broadly to include personnel, equipment and information).

The Group takes all threats, whether internal or external, deliberate or accidental, seriously. Accordingly, our policies, practices and procedures are developed, implemented and periodically reviewed to fulfil these commitments and responsibilities.

In order to attain the highest possible standards we will:

- Meet effectively and efficiently the security requirements expected by our clients, legislation and regulatory authorities
- Actively encourage a pro-active security culture
- Strive to continually improve performance in all areas of security to ensure the integrity of assets managed by the Group
- Work with all relevant parties in the development and implementation of our security systems.

To attain the highest standards of security requires the commitment of all staff. We therefore expect all employees to:

- Familiarise themselves with their responsibilities
- Support the Group's management in their endeavours to comply with this Policy

This Policy Statement Shall be reviewed annually, and following any significant change or development in the Group's business operations.
